Job Advertisement Terms and Conditions

These Terms govern the advertisement of any jobs posted on the Music Mark job pages (www.musicmark.org.uk/jobs) and your use of the site indicates your agreement to these Terms.

Content

- The Music Mark job pages act as an advertising board only. Music Mark is in no way responsible for ascertaining the suitability or legal status of a prospective employer and does not operate as an employment agency.
- www.musicmark.org.uk/jobs displays job listings in good faith from the information provided by employers. It in no way accepts any liability for the accuracy of such information or any consequences arising.
- Music Mark retain full and complete discretion over the content of its site and reserves the right to edit text and/or refuse to list any job submission.
- Job listings may not contain misleading information or unsuitable content (including but not limited to that which is illegal, sexual, racist, violent).
- Music Mark will not promote other 3rd party job sites and therefore all links to further details about a job must link directly to the website of the organisation placing the advert. Where this is not possible, Music Mark reserves the right to refuse to advertise the job on its site.

Bundled Adverts:

- Multiple vacancies with the same deadline can be 'bundled' i.e. listed together as one advert, at the cost of a single advert.

Amendments and Extensions:

- If Music Mark has made an error in processing your advert, this will be amended as soon as possible upon request. For no additional fee, minor changes may be requested twice during the time the advert is live.
- Music Mark will extend the deadline of a live advert for no additional fee.
- Each advert will be sent to the job alerts subscribers once and posted on social media once per platform. Amending an advert or extending the deadline does not resend it to the jobs mailing list or re-share it on social media. If you want to do this, a new advert must be submitted incurring the normal charges.

- Within one week of the deadline passing, you may request that the advert be re-posted with minor amendments for no additional fee. If you request that the advert be re-posted more than one week after the deadline has passed, a new advert must be submitted incurring the normal charges.

Copyright

- Music Mark retains copyright of the website within which the job pages reside. However, the content of each job post remains the copyright of the respective employer organisation.

Site Availability

- Music Mark endeavours to maintain good availability of its site. However, availability cannot be guaranteed and Music Mark accepts no liability for any interruption in service.

Payment

- Payment for job listings is by invoice which will be issued by Music Mark to the employer when the job listing is posted. Payment terms are 15 days.
